Vocation Training for women are being organized to make them self reliant through initiating their own small business. For this skill development of the beneficiaries is very important and necessary. If women are financially independent, she can look after the wellbeing of her entire family. Keeping this though in the mind, vocational training for women was started by the organization. Gradually vocational training run by BRKP has started receiving good and warm response from the beneficiaries' side. Now a day it is a successful and self sustain programme of the organization.

Now from last few years our organization is working on the same field for rural development as well as rural economical development through women empowerment. This program seeks to increase their economic self- sufficiency and social empowerment, eventually leading to their dynamic participation in society. The Empowerment of the women in the field of Vocational training and education would solve most of their problems and give them self sufficiency.

Awareness Camp on Declining Sex Ratio-Causes of Female Foeticide:
Declining sex ratio in various parts of the country, specifically the ratio of the girl child, compared to the boys in the age group of 0-6 years has been a cause of deep concern to Government of India. During the last ten years (since the last census from 945 in 1991 to 927 in 2001), this ratio has declined significantly in almost all parts of the country, barring Kerala, and notably in – Delhi, Haryana, Uttar Pradesh, Punjab (one of the worst sex ratios in the country), Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka.

Sex ratio (the number of females per 1000 males) for India is 933 earlier recorded in 1991 Census. Like the 1991 Census, the highest sex ratio (1058) has been reported in Kerala. Haryana has reported the lowest sex ratio of 861 among the major states. One of the interesting fact that has emerged is that the sex ratio of child population in age group 0-6 is 927. The child sex ratio in 1991 was 945. The sharpest decline in sex ratio of the child population has been observed in Himachal Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana, Gujarat, Uttaranchal, Maharashtra and Union territory of Chandigarh.

The Legal Awareness Campaign was aimed to address women issues and concerns vis-à-vis the existing legal frame work and the protection guaranteed to women in general and socially and economically vulnerable women in particular. The whole campaign was designed with the following three pronged approach:

Since the formation of our society, the “Bamongram Resham Khadi Pratisthan” had been working in a number of community based activities on women issues and their concerns. Over the years, it has focused its activities for the empowerment of Muslim women in Malda district. The reason for opting Muslim women and their welfare is that in spite of West Bengal being a political sensitive state and in the threshold of industrial and economic boom comparable to many developing states of West Bengal has another side: the rural areas. As one could see in many Indian rural areas, the women living in the villages of West Bengal are not only illiterates but also ignorant of their rights and their degrading status. The status of women belonging to Muslim communities is even worse. They are not only unaware of the seamless opportunities available at their doorsteps or at the community level to learn and educate them so as to change their lives but to a great extent remain ignorant.

of their surroundings. This state of deep ignorance makes them prone to exploitation in innumerable ways right from their family.

A decade ago, it was advocated that literacy and education were the keys for women’s empowerment. But now the time has changed. Mere literacy and education will not be sufficient to meet the challenges posed by women either in terms of domestic violence or sexual harassment in workplaces. Women need to be aware of the nuances of the protection guaranteed by Constitution and a number of special legal systems that are in place. But as one could see these against women on the one side and enactment of serious innovative laws and safeguards on the other side. This is a strange paradigm. Unless the women are addressed, helped and equipped to specific situation through appropriate intervention, the use of the whole corpus of laws will not be any use. The conduct of 4-days Legal Awareness Programme was a step towards this goal.

The entire workshop schedule was divided into 16 sessions with 4 sessions a day with lunch break of one hour. Each day session started at around 6.00 PM. The sessions were divided in the following broad areas.

- Lectures on legal literacy by lawyers and women activists;
- Interaction by women with the resource persons;
- Discussion among the participants on socio-cultural problems faced by women and arriving possible way out through consensus

The entire planning for the conduct of the Legal Awareness Camp, its course of action and the resolutions passed were assigned to the volunteer women of the society who took active part in the conduct of the Camp. The role of the Society is of mere facilitator to the entire process.
